When God appeared, the original manuscript for this book was jotted down in a black hard cover book with blank journal pages by the author to record the amazing conversion experience. It took a long time and much suffering before fruition of writing the full amazing story could come to pass. The black book traveled with the author everywhere she moved and after coming home from Alaska still stayed in the bottom of a drawer until after her second daughter's death in 2002, when she took it out, and started to write the full story found here. It even took more waiting, then after several stops and starts this, the final rendition, is complete and available for all to read this astounding account of events in her life especially her experience with the Holy One and how her life was changed. The span of time between the initial conversion experience and the writing of this book is brought into the story, but as the author now will say; her entire story is not done yet and conversion continues to unfold before her. Consider how timely it is that the availability of widespread publication is ever so available now to people with a story to tell. And, this is one story that needs to be told now, for these times of doubt, spiritual hunger, and turmoil in the world.
