Not a Place on Any Map, winner of the 2016 Vine Leaves Vignette Collection Award, explores the switch-backing emotional terrain of traumas and triumphs, as well as the disparate landscapes where they unfold. In rich, evocative snapshots of Chicago, the desert Southwest, California, New England, and Texas, the book traces a peripatetic childhood shaped by loss and dislocation that tumbles into an early adulthood spent chasing excitement from coast to coast and abroad. After being raped in Italy on her first trip to Europe at twenty-five, the author goes adrift in despair from which only drugs and alcohol provide escape. The flash lyric essays in this debut collection pursue a lost sense of self and home after trauma, but as the author discovers, home is not a place marked neatly on any map. Reaching recovery takes years and detours through depression, blurred landscapes, rehab, and jail. Ultimately, the book maps not home at all, but a truer place, one made all the sweeter for having travelled so far to find it.

Edna Barnett:

As a student exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some guide, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring as well as can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for you. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Not a Place on Any Map can make you feel more interested to read.
