Excerpt from How an One-Legged Rebel Lives, or a History of the 52nd Virginia Regiment

This book is not written because there is any apparent need of such a work, nor yet at the solicitation of friends, though their kind suggestions have influenced me, in part, but because I have an object in writing it, and that object is the money I expect to obtain from its sale. I am not selfish enough to believe it will be read, much less purchased by all, for such is not the fate of the best of books, and many good books find but few readers and fewer purchasers, nor do I hope to add much in the way of literature by my little pamphlet, yet I do not expect to fail altogether in giving something in return for what shall be paid me.

In its preparation I have been at some expense and a good deal of trouble, but at the same time, I have received much encouragement from my fellow-countrymen who have liberally aided me out of their means to have my book published.

To these generous persons I return my heartfelt thanks, and hope through their kindness to be enabled to do something for myself. I will do my own canvassing and employ no agents in its sale. Could I find employment in any way, I assure my readers I would not resort to authorship, but in these days of depression, when so many young and willing persons, sound of body and whole in limb, are out of employment and can find nothing to do, my chances are hopeless indeed.
